QNET presents:

Effective Conflict Resolution

Thursday, October 10, 2013 – 8:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

Location: QNET – Suite 660, 175 Hargrave Street, Winnipeg

When conflict arises most of us either put up our fists or head for the hills; our reaction is usually one of offence, defense or avoidance. Stomachs churn, blood pressure rises and volume elevates. Anxiety often pervades the situation reinforcing the belief that the disagreement will end up in a disaster. But conflict does not always have to be destructive; it can be very constructive if handled well. Given its inevitability, we all need to learn to manage conflict more effectively.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES - upon completion, participants will:

- Have an awareness of the beliefs and assumptions they hold about conflict;
- Examine assumptions that lead to conflict resolution;
- Identify the sources of conflict in their personal and work lives;
- Use a common language for conflict resolution;
- Describe the different conflict management styles and be able to utilize each style when appropriate to the situation;
- Understand and practice what skills are needed for resolving conflict effectively at work and at home;
- Recognize roadblocks to effective dispute resolution within your organization;
- Have a clear understanding of the role that each person within a team plays in facilitating conflict resolution;
- Use their personal action plans for further development of effective conflict resolution.

Facilitator: Priti Shah is a lawyer, mediator, arbitrator, investigator and facilitator and operates PRAXIS Conflict Consulting. Priti has conducted more than 160 mediation sessions and is trained as a Human Rights Investigator to deal with complaints of harassment or discrimination. In addition to equality, diversity and harassment, Priti trains in the areas of effective communication, conflict resolution, negotiation and mediation skills, and board development.
